Lookout Mountain-scenes.

Is there to be found an inquisitive, or intelligent person who has visited the city of Chattanooga and has not taken a trip to Lookout Mountain? If so, he has failed to avail himself of one of the grandest views from the summit of the most famous mountain in America. Aside from its historical attraction, the scene from this mountain can scarcely be described in words; it is one of those inexpressible views which impress the beholder with wonder, magnificence, and even awe—remembering it forever, yet finding all words inadequate for description. Located within only three miles of Chattanooga, and easily accessible to and from the city, it has become the principal summer resort of the South. Two lines are continually kept busy with the ever increasing visitors to the mountain. The shortest route is by means of the Incline or Cable car, and the other is by rail. The Cable is far preferable for the magnificent scenery that is on every side unrolled.

The ascent requires only ten minutes, but the scenery that one views can not be equalled. The ascent begins on level ground and I know of only one way to describe it, with my feeble pen, at every stride you gradually rise higher and higher after the manner of a balloon, almost before you are aware you are one hundred feet from the ground, where immense boulders stare you in the face with hundreds of wild flowers and shrubs seeming to bloom out from the very rocks to greet you; one stride higher and numberless boulders lie scattered around promiscuously, then a wall of solid rock guards the ascent you are to reach, which when you have arrived at the crest will be sixteen hundred feet high, leaving below you mansions and dwellings that have dwindled into toys as you view them from your dizzy height; arriving here you are greeted with "This way Mister," it is the porter of the Point Hotel who reminds you that you have not yet left this terrestrial globe. From the balconies of this Hotel may be had a view of five States, and the beautiful Tennessee River which winds along majestically in the precise likeness of a snake the Indian name for which is the Moccasin. Such is the delightful scenery that I might call it a mirage were it not so genuinely true. Your next step will be to visit the points of interest, ten steps from the hotel you board a train which takes you in the opposite direction from which you came, through a solid wall of nature's work, layer upon layer of stratified rock reaching far up above the locomotive to the highest point of the mountain.

Arriving at your destination you alight at Sunset Rock so named for the grand view that is obtained of the setting sun at dusk. I have not space to enumerate the immense rocks bearing various names such as Saddle Rock an actual representation of a saddle, Umbrella Rock which shelters many a drooping flower from the sun. Telephone Rock with its communicating rocks etc., etc. A few steps beyond you are greeted with childhood's happy laughter sporting with his pet dog on the lawn adorning a magnificent dwelling and you long to remove your own home to this enchanting summit. A little farther on and quite a neighborhood has been established which resembles certain portions of your city.

I should not fail to state that within the boundary of this neighborhood, which might with propriety be termed a small village, the aspect of the mountain has undergone a complete change, instead of the huge boulders the ground now becomes as even as the city and reaching away in one unbroken distance as far as the eye can reach, the large expanse shadowed by mighty oaks of the wilderness and shrubs of every species, the twittering of happy birds, and the health invigorating bounty of pure air making indeed a Paradise on earth. You stop to gather a hundred little articles you imagine are relics of the war for here was fought one of the bloodiest battles of the Civil War. Once in a while visitors are rewarded with relics of the late war, but let it be whatever it may, from the cannon ball to the brass button it is eagerly accepted as a relic.

Among the curiosity shops of the city, trees containing one or more bullets claiming to be the genuine war bullets are on exhibition with numerous swords, belts, caps, muskets, parts of flags and minor articles found at various times on the mountain. It would take columns to tell of the many interesting attractions on the mountain, among the most popular are the Germans, enjoyed on the old weather-beaten summit in one of the large hotels, when on this festive occasion Chattanooga's aristocracy meet their friends from states around.

A prominent feature of attraction last summer was the Spiritualists meeting which took place on their grounds near the Natural Bridge Hotel among the lecturers were, Mrs. Cora Richmond, of Chicago, Rev. Samuel Watson, of Memphis, Geo. A. Fuller, M. D. of Lookout Mountain, A. C. Ladd Esq., of Atlanta; a number of mediums, were present who gave demonstration of spirit presence. They are again holding meetings on the mountain this summer and drawing large crowds. Last but not least, attractive is the Summer Art School, by the Chattanooga Art Association. It was suggested to the Art Association that visitors interested in art who spend the summer on Lookout Mountain would be glad to avail themselves of the opportunity to improve their leisure moments in acquiring some instruction in drawing and painting. The school was designed to meet this suggestion and many are the handsome paintings of attractive scenes on exhibition. Following a path from here made by many and many a weary march of soldiers perhaps, we behold at the terminus a Hotel that for magnificence and the extent of its grounds is not to be equaled in the South; perhaps some of our readers have helped select a name for this mansion for it was considered a structure of such value that a prize was offered the person sending in the best name suitable, among the names suggested were such romantic ones as—Cloudland Hotel, Palace, Crystal, Excelsior, Grand View, and many more such, but to the eternal fitness of things it was destined to receive the name of Lookout Inn or the Inn as it is familiarly called and so it has been christened, and now, my kind readers, hoping you have enjoyed your imaginary trip we board the train for home ten steps from this Hotel carrying with you an everlasting remembrance of grand old Lookout Mountain.

Happy Hoosiers.

Wm. Timmons, Postmaster of Idaville, Ind., writes: "Electric Bitters has done more for me than all other medicine combined, for that bad feeling arising from Kidney and Liver trouble." John Leslie, farmer and stockman of same place says: "Find Electric Bitters to be the best Kidney and Liver medicine, makes me feel like a new man." J. W. Gardner, hardware merchant, same town, says: "Electric Bitters is just the thing for a man who is all run down and don't care whether he lives or dies; he found new strength good appetite and felt just like he had a new lease on life. Only 50c. a bottle, at G. W. Short's, Cloverport, Ky., and J. A. Witt's, Hardinsburg, Ky."

S. Armed on the Farmer.

Peter Gross, who lives near York Springs, Md., had been working hard all the morning, and about 10 o'clock concluded to take a nap under a cherry tree. He had just fallen into a doze when he heard a buzzing sound. He awoke to find a hive of his own bees swarming on his head. Rushing into the field he thought that by covering his head with earth he could get rid of them. But that did not have the desired effect. Being on the crest of one of the high hills which surrounded his house, he then threw himself on the ground, gave his body a shove and down he went, rolling over stones, sticks and bushes until at last he reached the kitchen door. By that time the bees had left him, and although he was very much cut and bruised, none of the wounds were serious.

From Bad to Worse.

The ordinary treatment of contagious blood poisoning is to drive one poison from the system by introducing another. The result, in most cases, has been that which usually follows a leap from the frying-pan into the fire. To put it mildly, mercurial and other mineral poisonings have disadvantages which are hardly less serious than contagious blood poisoning. In either case the system is wrecked; and yet there is no reason why humanity should continue to suffer. It is the office of S. S. S. to cure contagious blood poisoning. For that disease the medicine is surely a specific. And it is also its office to cure mercurial and other mineral poisoning. In short, S. S. S. is the great blood purifier. It destroys the germs of the contagious disease, and expels from the system all forms of mineral poisoning. It restores health and strength to the sufferer.

Cut down the old fruit trees that may be standing in the pastures that have passed beyond their period of usefulness. Unless they are taken care of they will become nests for the various fruit pests, and will in turn be the means of populating your orchard with undesirable colonies.

Our Son Jack.

Mr. Breezy—Our son Jack is getting altogether too large for a youngster. Mrs. Breezy—Oh, well, the child is father to the man, you know! Mr. Breezy—Very true, but Jack seems to consider himself father to the whole family.—N. Y. Herald.

La Grippe Again.

During the epidemic of La Grippe last season Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, Coughs and Colds, proved to be the best remedy. Reports from the many who used it confirm this statement. They were not only quickly relieved, but the disease left no bad after results. We ask you to give this remedy a trial and we guarantee that you will be satisfied with results or the purchase price will be refunded. It has no equal in La Grippe, or any Throat, Chest or Lung Trouble. Trial bottles free at G. W. Short's Drug Store. Large bottles, 50c. and $1.

Take Care of Your Waste Lands.

"Again we call the attention of our farmers to a matter that should by all means be given their consideration. It is the question of putting the waste acres of their farms into profitable cultivation which under present conditions cannot be cultivated in cereals or tobacco crops because the strength for reproduction is not in the soil. There are very few farmers in this section but have several acres of worn land that are lying idle and the soil being washed away by heavy rains. It is also well known that grain and tobacco are the staple crops of this section, and that without fertilization—which very few farmers do—it is only a question of a short time when the land will be so impoverished that these crops can not be produced with profit compared with new land being opened in the vast territories of this great domain. It therefore behooves the land owners of this section to utilize every means to keep up the stability of their farms and each year place the worn land in better condition for the cultivation of cereals and other staple crops. This can be done, and without a heavy outlay or expense, by putting the impoverished acres into grass and securing a revenue therefrom by the pasturing of sheep, a few head of horses or mules raised on the farm. There is no part of the investment on a farm that delivers more clear profit to the farmer's purse than a herd of well-selected sheep, a few head of good mules or a number of good mules. There are colts that the owners have been offered $125 for at weaning time, and nearly every farmer for familiar with what has been paid for good lambs and the profit on wool the past year, and that mule colts have brought sufficient at least to show they are the most profitable products of the farm. Now the waste acreage of land spoken of can be put in pasturage to raise such stock."—Warsaw Independent.
